

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Michigan Center for Civic Education

James Madison Legacy Project

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How do I apply?	Please use this registration link - http://bit.ly/jmlpapp2018
Q: Upon acceptance, what will I need to do to hold my place?	To hold your place, you must confirm your participation by sending a $100 check (made out to the Michigan Center for Civic Education) to 306 Townsend St, Lansing, MI 48933. This check is to help MCCE cover non-refundable costs should you cancel after June 20. The check will be returned to you--uncashed--if you A) attend the summer institute as confirmed, or B) contact MCCE and cancel your participation before June 20. If cancellation occurs after that date, MCCE will refund as much of the deposit as possible based on date of cancellation and vendor refund policies. Upon acceptance, there will also be a Google Form sent to you to confirm individual needs and interests (i.e., food restrictions/preferences, accessibility needs, SCECH/graduate credit intent, etc.).
Q: How many teachers will be accepted?	Up to twenty teachers will be accepted into Cohort 4, which will consist of one summer institute in July.
Q: What is the James Madison Legacy Project?	The James Madison Legacy Project (JMLP) is a three-year nationwide research initiative of the Center for Civic Education. JMLP seeks to increase the number of highly effective teachers of high-need students through the professional development of teachers, increase the achievement of students in civics and government, and more. The Michigan Center for Civic Education (MCCE) has been selected to coordinate the James Madison Legacy Project in Michigan. JMLP is funded through a grant from the U.S. Department of Education through the Supporting Effective Educator Development (SEED) program. MCCE has chosen to run a final, abbreviated summer institute to carry out the remainder of the JMLP grant.
Q: What are the research goals of the James Madison Legacy Project?	The James Madison Legacy Project Project analyzes the impact of We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum on civic learning. It also evaluates the impact of professional learning on teacher knowledge and its impact on student learning. The James Madison Legacy Research Project is the primary work of Dr. Diana Owen of Georgetown.

MICHIGAN
CENTER
FOR CIVIC EDUCATION

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: What does the research say so far?	We are finishing up the third year of the Project. The results demonstrate significantly significant improvement in student knowledge and student efficacy. Teachers also benefited in knowledge and enhancing their craft. Access to the preliminary research can be found here: http://jmlpresearch.org/research/
Q: What is the Michigan Center for Civic Education’s involvement? Why is the MCCE involved in the Project?	The Michigan Center for Civic Education’s mission is to prepare students to be active, informed, responsible citizens in a democratic society. The MCCE is recognized as Michigan’s leader in civic education. For over 30 years, the MCCE has conducted programs in support of its mission including authentic assessment in law-related civic education, civics and law institutes, Mock Trial, Project Citizen, Student Courts, Teens, Crime and the Community, Youth Law Conference, Civitas: International Civic Education Exchange Program, and much more. The MCCE has coordinated the We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution program in Michigan since 1987 when the program was developed as part of the celebration of the Bicentennial of the US Constitution.
Q: What is the We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum? What does it cover?	The We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum is divided into six units. Those six units are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Unit One: What Are the Philosophical and Historical Foundations of the American Political System? ➤ Unit Two: How Did the Framers Create the Constitution? ➤ Unit Three: How Has the Constitution Been Changed to Further the Ideals Contained in the Declaration of Independence? ➤ Unit Four: How Have the Values and Principles Embodied in the Constitution Shaped American Institutions and Practices? ➤ Unit Five: What Rights Does the Bill of Rights Protect? ➤ Unit Six: What Challenges Might Face American Constitutional Democracy in the 21st Century? An important component of the curriculum is a simulated congressional hearing, which can be a culminating activity. (see next question)

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: How does We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution promote authentic, active learning? What are examples of activities?	The We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution Program culminates with simulated Congressional hearings. Students create a prepared statements to answer questions they receive in advance. They also prepare to answer questions they may be asked from a panel about their topic. Students are encouraged to make connections between historical underpinnings and current events regarding key governing principles. The MCCE hosts optional district and state competitions, each with their own set of hearing questions. A current list of the questions can be found: http://www.civiced.org/wtp-the-program/hearings/hearing-questions. Please visit the Center for Civic Education’s website for examples of hearings. While you are not expected to compete at any level, you are expected to use some variation of the hearings in your class - adapted in ways that best serve your students.
Q: I teach A.P. students, I teach general education students, I teach English Language, I teach nontraditional students, I teach special education students, and more. How might We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution fit within my course?	Teachers have great freedom and flexibility to implement the program to meet the needs of their students. We often see the curriculum being integrated into: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ A.P. United States Government and Politics courses. ➤ General Government or Civics courses ➤ Stand alone We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution courses ➤ Civics and Government courses at treatment/residential schools (often modified with the struggling readers resource of a different level of book) ➤ Special Education courses. There are numerous adaptations available to meet the needs of students successfully. ➤ General education courses (often modified with the struggling readers resource) ➤ English Language Learner courses (often modified with the struggling readers resource of a different level of book). This is an excellent method to focus on spoken language and American government fundamentals ➤ Speech, humanities, and/or current events courses ➤ Many more Successful implementation can occur within most scheduling variations - from trimesters, semesters, to year-long courses. Teachers have the flexibility to integrate in ways to best meet their needs. We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution correlates with the Michigan state standards and with many A.P. United States Government and Politics outcomes. Draft correlation guides are available.

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: I don't teach government or civics. Can I attend?	Upon reviewing the curriculum, if you feel you can implement the material with fidelity, we would encourage you to apply.
Q: Can more than one teacher from my school apply?	Yes. If you have colleagues would you like to attend, we encourage all of you to apply. In fact, preference will be given to teacher teams.
Q: Will these hours count for district hours?	They likely will, but please confirm with your administration. Upon completion of the program, a notification of completion will be sent to your district. Your administration will also be sent a letter detailing your participation, a copy of the agenda, and a copy of your certificate of completion. Please note that you must attend the entire session and bring $5 to the conference if you would like to receive SCECHs.
Q: What style of instruction does We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution support?	We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution is a student-centered, active learning curriculum. Teachers facilitate learning through questioning and student dialogue. Students demonstrate learning through discussion and dialogue. In the professional learning sessions, mentor teachers will demonstrate effective strategies and techniques.
Q: What criteria will you use to determine who is accepted?	Priority will be given to teachers who teach government and civics primarily and serve high-needs students. We also have accepted history and current events teachers who emphasize civic education in their courses. Preference will be given to secondary teachers.

MICHIGAN
CENTER FOR CIVIC
EDUCATION

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: Who is a high-needs student?	The SEED Grant Program Notice from the Department of Education defines “high-needs students” as students who are at risk of educational failure or otherwise in need of special assistance and support. The notice indicates that high-need students are in one or more of the following categories. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Students served by Rural Local Educational Agencies ➤ Students with disabilities ➤ English learners ➤ Students in lowest-performing schools ➤ Students who are living in poverty and are served by schools with high concentrations of students living in poverty (can be measured by free and reduced lunch) ➤ Disconnected youth or migrant youth ➤ Students who are members of federally recognized Indian tribes ➤ Students who attend high minority schools ➤ Students who are far below grade level ➤ Students at risk of not graduating with a diploma on time ➤ Students who are homeless or foster care ➤ Students who are incarcerated Again, please do not let this limit your consideration. Please apply regardless of your student population.
Q: Do I need to attend the summer session the whole time?	Yes. Attendance the summer session (July 23-27 in Lansing, MI) is required. You will also be expected to join us in an online Professional Learning Community.
Q: What am I committing to in my classroom practice?	To be included in the fourth Cohort of JMLP, you will need to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Participate in our Professional Learning Community, an online discussion of We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum and instruction ➤ Infuse aspects of the We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum and instruction ➤ Invite MCCE staff and mentor teachers to observe and support classroom instruction and curriculum ➤ Involve students in the curricular culminating activity: simulated congressional hearing(s) ➤ Collect, provide, and share data from classes or students
Q: What does the summer institute agenda look like?	Our days will be filled with scholarly discussions, classroom demonstrations, instructional strategies, and more. An example of the third year cohort agenda can be found here (or https://docs.google.com/document/d/10hcy5nlPKQkWChpjGMn3EHkH6sZiY9COibeEzrThPaQ/edit?usp=sharing). All meals and lodging are included during our time together.

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: What are the due dates and timeline?	The application deadline has been extended to June 11. Notification of acceptance will be made on or before June 12. The $100 check to hold your place must be sent by June 15. The last day to cancel your participation and receive your uncashed check is now June 20th, though MCCE will refund as much of the $100 as possible (based on the date of cancellation and vendor refund policies) should you cancel after June 20th.
Q: What support will I receive for doing the We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution curriculum?	There are numerous online companion resources including guides for struggling readers, accompanying primary documents outlined by unit and lesson, previous institute information, and more. As part of your participation, you will also have access to mentor teachers and the MCCE staff. This could take multiple forms – from in class instructional support, curriculum discussions, working with your administration, and so much more.
Q: What out of pocket costs are there?	Initial out of pocket costs will include mileage to and from the workshops. The grant will reimburse you for your miles (at a set rate). Meals and lodging are paid for by the grant. There should be no additional out of pocket costs unless individuals choose to incur additional expenses.
Q: What does my administration need to know or do to support me?	We hope your district will fully support you in your decision to utilize the We the People curriculum. We would be happy to facilitate a conversation on the potential benefits of involvement in the study and how it may benefit both you and your students. We may ask your administrator(s) to complete a brief form supporting your participation.
Q: What type of scholars will I learn with?	We will provide a mix of Constitutional scholars and experts working in the field. You can expect professors and Constitutional advocates in the field to join us. In the past, we have heard from Kevin denDulk of the Henry Institute at Calvin College, Michael Lawrence of Michigan State University Law School, Mary Beth Tinker from the Tinker v West Des Moines School District court case, Paula McAvooy of the University of Wisconsin, Lena Zwarenstejn of the American Constitution Society, and many more. Please see the agenda above for an example of last year’s scholars. 2017-2018 scholars are being finalized now. An agenda can be expected in May.
Q: Will you be able to support my accessibility needs?	Yes. Please communicate those needs in advance so we can meet your needs. We will communicate with our host facilitates to meet your needs. Our goal is an inclusive environment permitting freedom of movement and comfort for all.

JAMES MADISON Legacy Project

PROVIDING CIVIC EDUCATION TO HIGH-NEEDS SCHOOLS

Funded by the U.S. Department of Education

Q: Will you be able to accommodate my dietary needs?	Yes. Please communicate those needs in advance so we can best meet your needs. We will communicate with our host facilitates to meet your needs.
Q: I cannot participate this summer but I am very interested in future institutes and events out of MCCE. What can I do?	If you are interested in receiving invitations and updates to future MCCE events, please contact Christine Hekman and let her know. She can be reached at christine.a.hekman@gmail.com.
Q: I have more questions. Who can I contact?	Great! Please direct your questions to us at the MCCE. Your primary contact person for the James Madison Legacy Project is Christine Hekman. She can be reached at christine.a.hekman@gmail.com.

MICHIGAN
CENTER FOR CIVIC
EDUCATION